

<Marine Life Rearing Log>

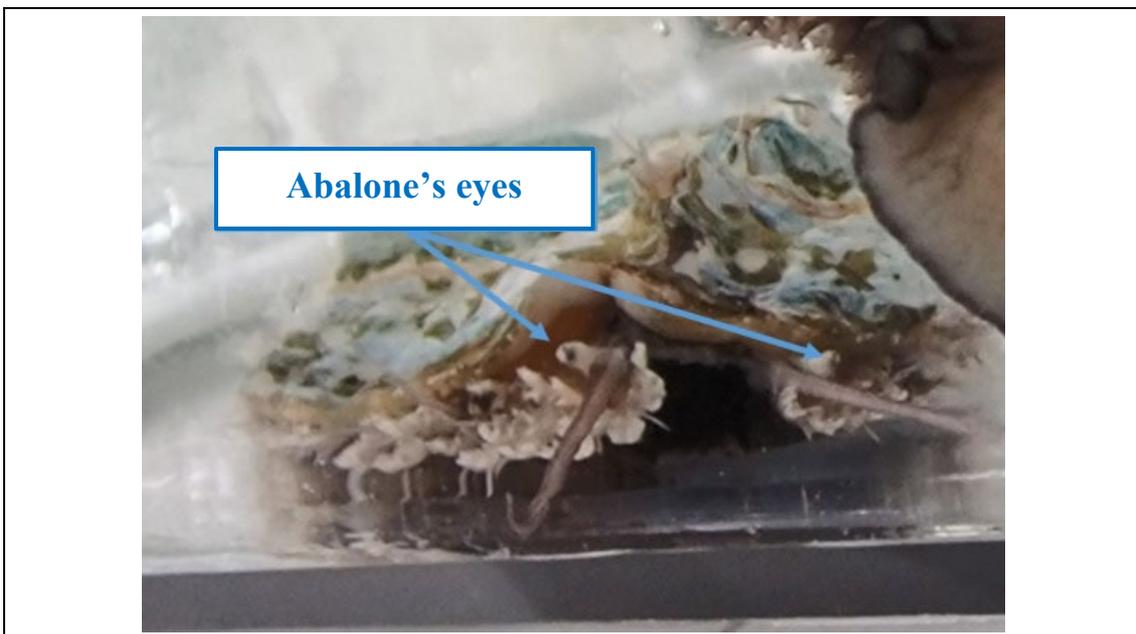

9 AM, September 8, 2023

Weather: Sunny

Water temperature: 18.7°C

This is a still image of an abalone coming toward the camera from the far left as seen in the abalone video we posted the day before yesterday. It is a frontal image of the abalone's face, and you can clearly see its "eyes" as well as its antennae. I bet you've never seen the eyes of a shellfish before, have you!?

<Next report will be on September 11>

The number of dead abalone / removed for research
